

Divinely Anointed School of Theology (Business & Professional Development Center)

Academic Departments Description

Academic Department

The Academic Department is a subdivision of the Divinely Anointed School of Theology designated and is responsible for instruction and/or research in a specific discipline or discipline.

Academic Department Head

The Academic Director is responsible for the management of the academic department of Divinely Anointed School of Theology and includes faculty recruitment and development, faculty evaluation, program development, program review, curriculum development, student counseling, and departmental. including, but not limited to, budgeting and budgetary control, educational planning, and general oversight of teaching, research, services, and related academic activities of each Department.

Admission Department

Our admission department, Advises prospective students on admission requirements and options, transmission/articulation, and related issues. Create and manage programs to target, recruit and retain defined groups of students, visit schools and colleges, and give presentations to groups and individuals.

Advising Center Department

The advising center advised and worked closely with students to help them achieve their educational goals by choosing courses, identifying strengths, choosing majors, and acting as a resource until the student graduates.

Business & Professional Development Center

Here at DAST-BPDC, our goal of the business and professional development center is to process, identify, and nurture our students by providing relevant materials and a structured course that is applicable to the real world of business.

Divinely Anointed School of Theology (Business & Professional Development Center)

Academic Departments Description

Enrollment Services Department

DAST-BPDC enrollment department assists prospective students during the enrollment process at DAST. This department is responsible for guiding prospective students through the application process, providing information about program requirements, and helping students ways to finance their program of study through a payment plan process.

FREE Courses

Just as it is stated, these courses are free of charge and only need your willingness to complete the course.

Library Resources

This is a free and accessible library resource accessible through the internet.

Benefits of a Digital Library

- Wide Variety of Content Available. ...
- Easily Updated. ...
- On-Demand Access. ...
- Simplified Search. ...
- 24/7 Availability. ...
- Unlimited Access to Multiple Resources. ...
- Library Management Automation. ...
- Real-Time Interactions.
- Reduce resource depletion

Online Programming Department

The Online Program Director at DAST-BPDC is responsible for working with faculty to lead and manage the university's educational technology programming, online courses, and a robust suite of programs including:

Divinely Anointed School of Theology (Business & Professional Development Center)

Academic Departments Description

- Evaluate and recommend innovative concepts,
- technologies, and
- modes of delivery for hybrid online learning.

Classroom technology to ensure the exemplary quality of online courses. Ensures all certification and regulatory requirements are met. Align efforts with the university's academic priorities, mission, branding, and institutional learning outcomes. Collaborate with academic departments, faculty, and staff. Knowledge of accessibility and ADA Requirements; to promote and recommend relevant professional development for online teachers; It also serves as a central point of contact for her partner online.

Registrar Department

The registrar department maintains student records and course data. This includes but is not limited to assisting students with course scheduling and registration. Grades are also reviewed in a timely manner with your instructor to ensure that your academic performance meets the certificate or degree requirements to meet the institution's goals.

Theology Department

Along with its commitment to dynamic orthodoxy, the Department of Theology educates students to gain a deeper understanding of the divinely revealed mysteries that make up the Deposit of Faith. fields such as business administration, strategic management, leading organizational change, and economics subjects.

Tuition Department

The Tuition Department is responsible for billing and collecting tuition and fees. We will provide you with various payment plans for your tuition fees.

Adopted – March 2023